Foreword . . .

This year we have chosen as the theme of the 1962 Colophon

in pursuit of excellence

Excellence — that all-inclusive, all-powerful term — connotes many abstract qualities that can be attained only by those who genuinely deserve them.

But why the word "pursuit"? Have not people the world over, from ancient times to the present, pursued excellence? And will they not continue its pursuit in the centuries to come? If we wished to bestow honor upon Meyers, would not "the conquest of excellence" be a more appropriate theme? This is not so. Actually, it is to the credit of Meyers' students and faculty to say that we pursue excellence. It is an impossibility to conquer excellence for longer than a fleeting moment, for the world does not stand still; and, if we remain in one corner clutching the small amount of excellence that we have attained, we are soon left far behind. It is necessary to pursue excellence constantly, to pursue it with mind, with body, and with soul. Only then is it possible to say, "We have succeeded. We have excelled."

We at Meyers can be proud of the excellence we have attained: excellence in scholarship, with good facilities and with a faculty who are able to provide us with myriad opportunities for personal and general advancement; excellence of student body, in effort, in participation, and in achievement; excellence in sports and activities, in good sportsmanship, in team spirit, and in training for leadership.

The Lamp of Knowledge^{*} is the symbol we have chosen to represent our constant pursuit of excellence, for it is a symbol not only of the end but, even more important, of the means to the end. In one aspect it is the symbol of the inspiration to become aware of our surroundings, to see the "light," and thus to gain knowledge through actual experience. It is also the symbol of the attainment of this knowledge, of the "light" and understanding it brings and of the clear perception of truth.

MISS VERONICA BRISLIN

Miss Veronica Brislin is well known to all Meyers' students not only as an excellent social studies and French teacher but also as an active participant in several of our most important activities. Miss Brislin is a member of the Honor Society Committee and a co-sponsor of the Junior and Senior Chapters of the National Honor Society. For five years she sponsored the Student Council. Even more than this, her unselfish interest in students has led her to be considered with esteem, trust, and respect. We are fortunate to have such a fine person as an example of good citizenship and conduct during the time when our standards of behavior are being formed.

MISS MARY JULE DOUGHER

Although she has been a member of the faculty for many years, Miss Mary Jule Dougher is the newest Senior homeroom teacher. Wise, poised, interested, helpful, Miss Dougher has made many valuable contributions to the betterment of our school, perhaps the greatest of these being her presence. Many students recognize and appreciate the excellent work Miss Dougher has accomplished as a sincere and dedicated English teacher. In addition to her outstanding work in the classroom, Miss Dougher is a member of the Awards Committee and this year she supervised the D.A.R. Citizenship Award. By constantly and conscientiously striving to instill the desire for knowledge in her students, Miss Dougher upholds the high standards of her profession.

MISS CASIMIR TYBURSKI

Meyers' students will always remember Miss Casimir Tyburski with great admiration and respect. She has worked with many of us in the capacity of co-sponsor of the Future Teachers of America and sponsor of the Ushers Club. In coming years Miss Tyburski will be the Teaching Supervisor of English at Meyers. However, her most important position is that of serving to inspire her students to higher ideals, and she has instilled a wonderful spirit of optimism in all who know her. We have all benefited from Miss Tyburski's intelligence, resourcefulness, and trustworthiness; and we are privileged to have such an outstanding teacher with us.

MR. WARREN CHALLIS

Mr. Warren Challis, one of the best-liked of all our teachers and a capable mathematics instructor, has broadened his interests in countless ways to give invaluable assistance to Meyers' students. He has been class advisor to six graduating classes, and, in this role, has devoted himself to their betterment. He has also been assistant director of Amateur Night. At present, he is co-sponsor of the Future Teachers of America and score-keeper for the varsity basketball team. A patient, sincere, and understanding man, Mr. Challis seems to possess a natural ability to give students a feeling of confidence in his presence. He has earned everyone's respect for these fine qualities and valuable contributions.

MR. THOMAS DONLIN

Mr. Thomas Donlin, a competent history teacher and head of our Social Studies Department, originated many of the school activities that we enjoy today. He organized the first high school and college bands in the city and was, for two years, band director at Meyers. He has entertained us with band and choir concerts and countless Amateur Nights. He was responsible for the development of our cheer-leading squads and other traditional school functions such as Color Day and Senior Council. Throughout his years at Meyers, Mr. Donlin has devoted himself to the students as a teacher and as a loyal friend.

MR. JAMES MCGOWAN

Mr. James McGowan, a devoted teacher with a wonderful personality and a sense of humor to match it, has served as an exceptional example of unselflessness to Meyers' students. Well-liked by everyone, he has been an outstanding class advisor countless times. He initiated the idea of selling patron tickets as a fund-raising project and introduced orchid corsages for Senior Proms. Mr. McGowan has had charge of adult education night classes and has been co-sponsoring the Pigskin Prom for a number of years. His artistic ability is evident in his design for our school flag. He was a P.I.A.A. official in football, basketball, baseball and track and at present is Meyers' baseball coach. Mr. McGowan has been an inspiration to all who know him. We will remember always his spirit and his enthusiasm.

Message to the Class of 1962

MR. H. LEON GILBERT
Principal

After six years of work, you have now completed the requirements and are being graduated from Meyers High School. You have finished the job you set out to do. We sincerely trust the years have been happy and rewarding for you and that you have gotten from your high school education the things you wanted. The degree to which your hopes and dreams have been fulfilled has been dependent to a great extent on your attitude and the amount of time and energy you have expended to reach graduation.

A graduation means completing something. It means an end of a certain way of life. It means that you have finished organized secondary education. But graduation doesn't mean the end of study or of learning. It doesn't mean that you'll cease to strive to realize your life ambitions. It doesn't mean the end of the road for you. Think of graduation from high school as the ending of one phase of life and the beginning of another. This, then, is your commencement; another beginning — a time to set new goals or to extend them — a time for greater vision.

What shall your vision be? I cannot say. Your parents and friends should not try to say. It is true you will need help and advice in many ways to plan and to further your plans. But your vision belongs to you, each one individually. You alone can set your goal or dream your vision. However, I do believe that no matter what your vision is there are certain guideposts that you would do well to consider. Some of these are love, integrity, honesty, faithfulness, responsibility, truthfulness, character, a good name, faith, and many others. Volumes could be written about them. They overlap in meaning and connotation. But think and meditate upon them as you follow your star. Perhaps integrity, with a capacity to love all that is good, might best summarize what is implied in these guideposts. To each of you, may your vision be beyond the stars. May you have faith in yourselves to achieve a rich and full life. May your name be remembered for good.

ADMINISTRATION

Miss Ruth Evans and Miss Sallie Carey are responsible for keeping school records of an unimaginable variety. Yet one glimpse of our main office at any time of the day would convince anyone that this job is being performed with skill and competence. To our capable office staff goes much of the credit for keeping our school running smoothly.

MISS RUTH EVANS

MISS SALLIE CAREY

Miss Gretchen Allen is familiar to all of us in her capacity as nurse on duty mornings and two afternoons weekly. Throughout the year she tests Meyers' students for physical disabilities, in addition to examining candidates for sports and driving.

MR. JOHN M. DAVIES
Assistant Principal

Mr. John M. Davies is one of the busiest members of the administrative staff at Meyers High School. His duties are as varied as the needs of the students of our school and include such major responsibilities as scheduling and parent and student interviews. As Mr. Davies himself says, "I do everything except teach homemaking."

The Library

Librarian: Miss Alice Schappert

The Meyers High School library contains approximately 7,000 books on many subjects which are designed to interest, as well as to inform, the reader. In addition to these books, the library materials include current and back-date magazines, vocational information, and pamphlets.

The library subscribes to approximately 80 magazines and newspapers. There are six encyclopedias, three of which have been copyrighted since 1959. Between 400-500 new books are added each year. The library also houses all of the school's audio-visual equipment.

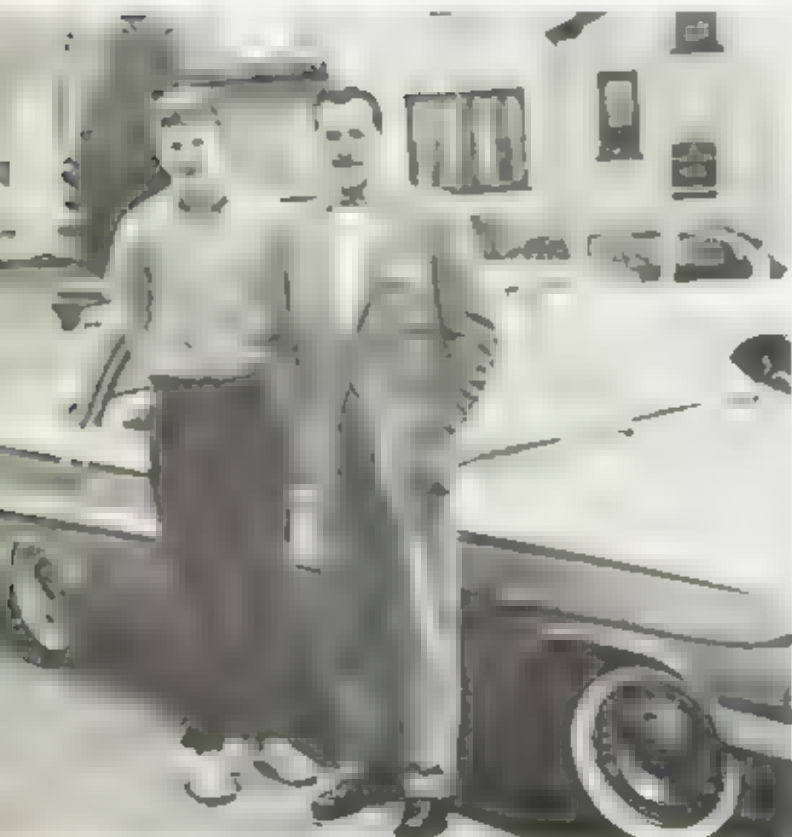

The library is always open to students. John Connelly, Jim Connelly, and Stuart Blaustein "sign in."

Teachers who wish to do so, can schedule classes to meet in the library at regular intervals. Junior High School students have library classes regularly each month so that they may become familiar with library rules and practices. Other groups of students come for library periods at the discretion of their teachers. Individuals who have written permission from a teacher may come to the library during a study period or during the activity period.

It is our aim at the Meyers Library to instill in our students good library habits and an understanding of library practices so that they will be better prepared to use the facilities of a college or public library.

Safe-Driving Course

Instructor: Mr. Ralph Evans

David Frey and Mr. Ralph Evans are about to begin a driving lesson.

Before the course in safe driving was introduced in the Wilkes-Barre Public Schools several years ago, students were taught driving by their parents, relatives or friends. Why, then, the need for a Safe-Driving Course in school? The answer is simple: to provide free and expert instruction for young drivers. A populace of carefully trained drivers will help to eliminate the menacing problem of traffic accidents.

The student who elects the course must have an eye examination at the State Police Barracks. He is then given a physical examination by the school. When he is sixteen his learner's permit is obtained, and he begins the course, which lasts approximately six weeks. At the end of this time, the student is taken for his driver's examination. If he fails the first time, he is allowed a second chance; but after a second failure he must take the test on his own.

Because of the principles and good driving habits taught in the safe-driving course, the phrase "teenage driver" will cease to be a derogatory one.

Great Teaching . . .

English is a required course in all grades. In Junior High School stress is placed upon basic grammar. Senior High School students are offered literature, as well as English language courses. The study of literature — American, English, and World — includes the best works of the greatest authors. The techniques worked on are fine points of grammar, punctuation and usage.

Every student in the seventh and eighth grades is required to take a course in developmental reading. In the course, emphasis is placed upon a review of elementary reading skills, and guidance is given in applying these skills to material that increases in difficulty as students progress. Improvements in speed, comprehension, and vocabulary are the result.

It has been said that great teaching is great giving. What have the teachers in the English department given to the students? They have been fulfilling their purposes which are:

— To prepare the student for college and professions by building a foundation in the use of the English language. This is the most important skill in a student's education for it permits him to communicate easily with people who speak his language.

— To enable the student to recognize, understand, appreciate, and love great pieces of literature and to familiarize him with the best thoughts of writers of antiquity and writers of today.

— To help the student realize the richness of vocabulary.

— To teach the student to apply the knowledge of English in other departments.

— To help the student feel at ease in a classroom, to speak freely, and to voice his opinions.

— To encourage the development of a sense of humor and a friendly attitude.

— To guide the student to think, speak, and write in a clear, logical manner.

— To encourage independence of thought and an open-minded view.

These have been the purposes and ideals of the teachers in the English department. They all point toward an ultimate goal: the betterment of each individual with whom they come in contact — the unselfish aim of a department that pursues excellence.

Miss Casimir Tyburski, English Supervisor at Meyers, is always willing to help in any way possible.

Science is taught at all six grade levels at Meyers High. Through a carefully planned program, the courses offered cover a wide range of subjects. The courses chosen by the student will depend upon his future needs and his ability. It is recognized that not all students will become scientists or engineers, but in today's technical world a sound background in the sciences is a necessity in any field of endeavor.

The first two years at Meyers are devoted to the basic principles of science. General science, which is a survey of all the physical and biological sciences, is taught in the ninth grade. In the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades, college preparatory classes are offered in biology, chemistry, and physics, including advanced courses in chemistry and biology for those students who have shown superior ability. Courses in the practical sciences are offered for those students who do not intend to go on to college. Students also enter projects in the Wilkes-Barre City Science Fair. This year, the following students were recognized for outstanding projects:

Eighth Grade Science: 1st prize, Paul Counterman; honorable mention, Chris Kistler

General Science: 5th prize, George Mohanco, honorable mention, William Malloy

Biology: 3rd prize, Stanley Kocian
4th prize, Ivan Schonfeld

Honorable mention, Anne Brislin, Diane Clocker, Jean Marie Martin, Lorraine Sokash

Physics: honorable mention, Paul Britten, Francis Hannon

Chemistry: 3rd prize, Joseph Cimmet
Honorable mention, Sharon Brown, Ted Fink, Frank Gegwich, Tom Skyler

The main objective of the Science Department is to motivate students toward an interest in science and prepare them for college. But in a greater sense, all students are taught to think clearly, concisely, and objectively. This is most important, for no one can become a success in any field unless he has mastered the art of thinking.

A Diversified Department

The aim of the Mathematics Department is to produce alert, quick-thinking young people, prepared for college or for a chosen position. Students are required to study some form of mathematics every year. A course in arithmetic is offered to the students of the seventh and eighth grades, including an introduction to algebra and geometry. As early as eighth grade, students are given a test to determine whether they have aptitude for algebra. Freshmen and sophomores in the College Preparatory course study algebra for two years. Eleventh grade students are required to take geometry; and a course in trigonometry, solid geometry, and advanced mathematics is available to Seniors. Advanced mathematics courses are also available for those students who qualify in this field.

Students who plan to enter the field of business take the Business Education course. They study business mathematics and take two years of accounting.

Proof of the success of this department is the fact that most of its students find a good, practical use for the many skills they have learned. The Mathematics Department is an excellent and diversified one.

Promoting International Friendship

MISS MARY BURNS

MRS. MILDRED FREY

MISS MIRIAM WATKINS

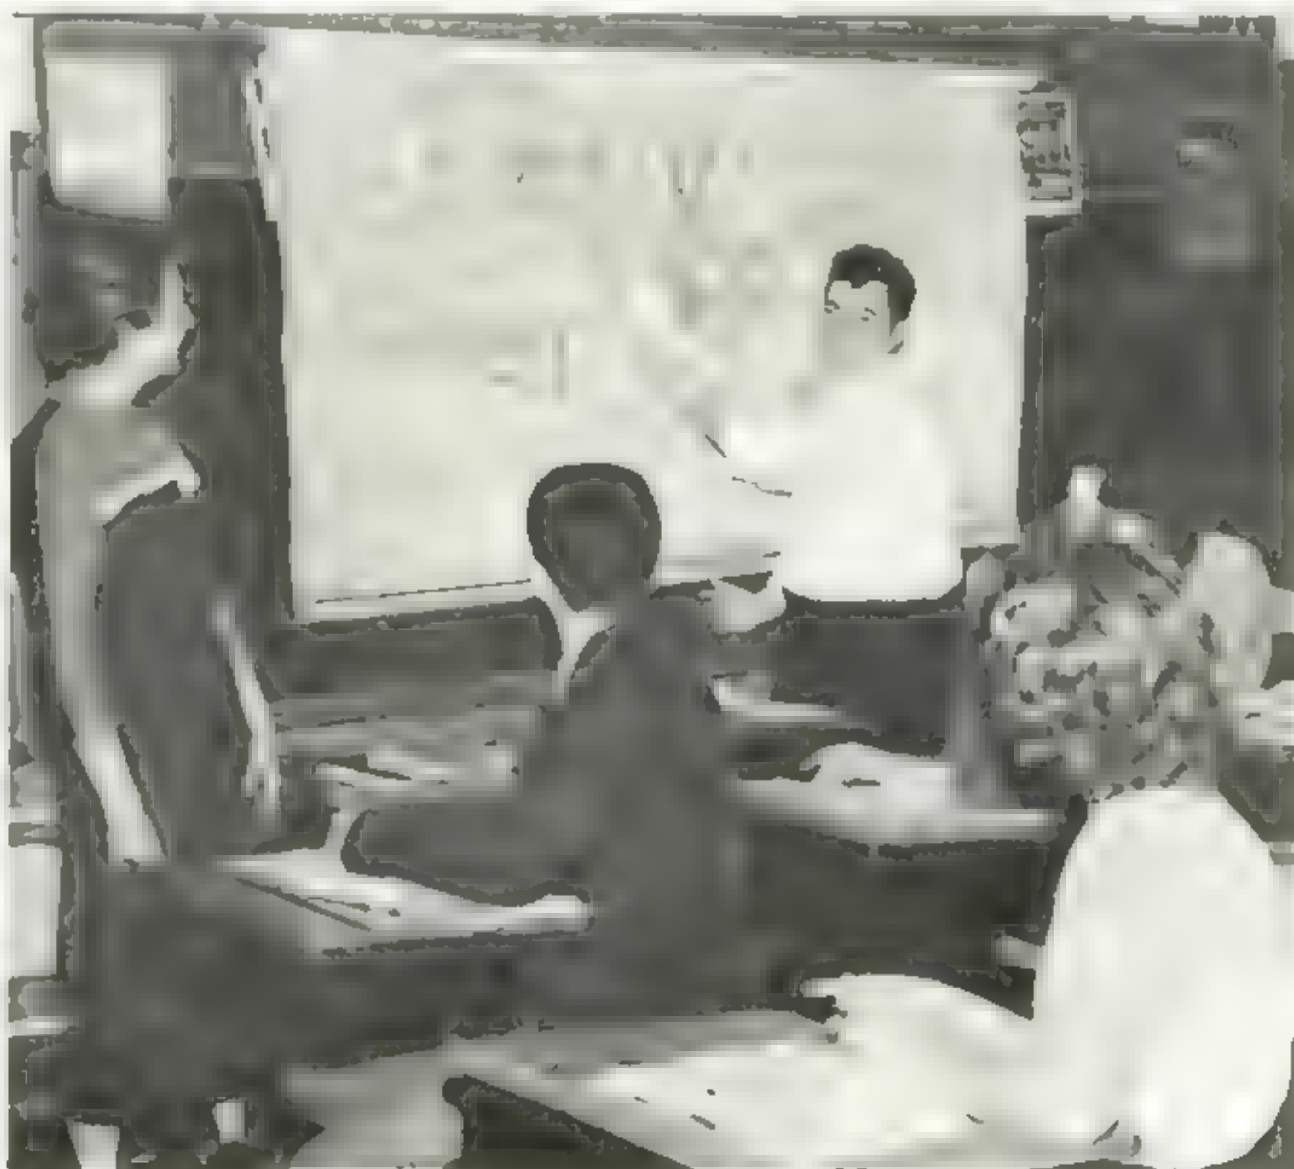

MISS ELSIE WEAVER

Language is the chief means of communication among human beings. In our modern world, the knowledge of at least one foreign language is becoming almost a necessity. On a planet tending toward world citizenship, the study of a language broadens the student's world-consciousness and promotes respect for the language and culture of another country.

At Meyers High School a two-year course is offered to students in each of the following languages: French, German, Latin, and Spanish. Study may be continued in a third and fourth year if sufficient interest is shown to warrant the organization of such classes. Recordings, conversation, reading, songs, and games are employed to enable the student to develop an understanding of the spoken language and an ability to use that language.

The main purpose of studying a language is to gain a fundamental ability in speaking and writing the language, as well as a basic knowledge of the grammar and vocabulary. A certain amount of the history and culture of the country whose language is being studied is also taught, giving the language student a better understanding of the people who speak the language. It is felt that this will help the student to a better cultural and intellectual outlook by promoting interational friendship.

Stuart Blaustein traces Caesar's campaigns on a map of the Roman Empire in Miss Weaver's Latin class.

Fostering Better Relationships

Barry Wasserstrom points out an area being studied, while Mr. Donlin looks on.

The Social Studies Department was recently reorganized. The first important objective was to prepare a "time" study guide for all Social Studies teachers in order to establish uniformity of presentation. The second objective was to eliminate duplication of teaching units.

Recent trends include greater emphasis on the study of economics. Pennsylvania High School graduates in the class of 1964 will have to be certified in thirty-six hours of study in economics. A one-semester elective course is being planned for twelfth grade students.

In the World Cultures course, the State Department of Public Instruction advocates multi-textbook usage in order to acquaint students with the cultures of the peoples of the world. This broad coverage is intended to bring about greater international understanding.

The most recent and significant development in the Social Studies program is the new Teacher Guide for Human Relations Education for Pennsylvania Schools. In its broad sense, human relations is a term covering all relations which exist among individuals and groups. Human relations education is concerned primarily with fostering better relationships between individuals and groups of different racial, religious, nationality and socio-economic backgrounds. Human relations education emphasizes the needs of all children. These needs are love, guidance, faith, protection, security, acceptance, control, independence, and success.

Three new textbooks have been recently adopted. Two outstanding educational publications have been recently integrated in our Social Studies program also. They are World Week and Senior Scholastic.

Ready For Employment

An Office Practice class learns to use typewriters, adding machines, and other office equipment

The Business Education course at Meyers is designed as a terminal course. This means that, when a student maintains standards set by the department and completes the course of study prescribed, he is ready for employment in the business world.

Subject matter is planned to train for the following positions: secretary, stenographer, bookkeeper, typist, business machine operator, and general office worker. Standards are those established to meet the demands of modern business and those set for government employees.

In the Business Education Department, the course of study includes business mathematics, beginning and advanced shorthand, dictation and transcription, beginning and advanced typewriting, beginning and advanced bookkeeping, accounting, and office practice. The office practice course includes training in office procedure, office machines, and filing.

Students with "A" and "B" averages are considered in the second semester of the twelfth grade for placement in business offices under the Business-Cooperative Work Experience Program. Upon recommendation of their teachers and approval of the school administrators, Mr. Alfred B. Schimmel, supervisor of Business Education for Wilkes-Barre City Schools, places the "quality" students in banks, law offices, and other business offices. Under this plan, students are dismissed from school at 1:40 p.m. and work in local business offices at the minimum wage rate authorized under the Wages and Hours Law. Outstanding achievement is also recognized each year with awards to seniors who earn distinction for scholarship and skill performance in the Business Education Department.

The door of the Guidance Department is always open to the students. Here they can find a friendly counselor ready to talk about any area of their school progress, a personal problem, an educational choice, or a decision concerning vocational plans. Whether the pupils are brand-new, shy seventh-graders or confident seniors, the counselors are anxious to assist in making the best use of their opportunities so that school experiences will be happy, satisfying, and successful.

Students who have difficulty making friends or getting along with parents or brothers and sisters, those who wish help in deciding on courses best suited to their abilities, and those seeking information about college requirements, scholarship aid, or current career information have found it most helpful to discuss these matters with their counselor.

The Guidance Department carries out a number of activities specifically designed to aid the students. It administers a thorough testing program, including ability, achievement, aptitude tests, and interest inventories. Results are recorded in the cumulative record maintained for each student and interpreted to students and parents during individual conferences.

A career conference is held annually, and a follow-up of the graduates is made each year. Current college catalogues are on file in the guidance office, as well as a collection of occupational materials covering major fields of interest.

Through a comprehensive knowledge of the individual's strengths and weaknesses, the guidance program seeks to aid the students to better understand themselves and their abilities and to make appropriate decisions in the light of this understanding.

Producing Competent Workers

Mr. Park instructs a student during a Mechanical Drawing class

The Vocational Education Program is generally considered to be an education which prepares the student for successful entry into specific employment upon graduation from high school. Vocational Education aims to produce competent workers and citizens who are economically, socially, emotionally and physically well adjusted.

The various courses offered to Meyers students are: machine shop practice, sheet metal fabrication, printing, electricity — including motor winding, residential wiring and equipment repair, auto mechanics and electronics technology.

The machine shop is well equipped to teach the use of various machines found in the machine shops of our Valley, and graduates find ample opportunity for employment as machinists and machinist's helpers.

The sheet metal fabrication class teaches layout work, pattern drafting and metal fabrication. The sheet metal industry needs trainees and good employment is available.

Printing, both letterpress and offset, are offered. Letterpress printing is the conventional cold type process which is the basis for all printing. Offset printing is a new process based on photolithographic processes and has become an important part of the printing industry today. Offset printing is a rapidly growing phase of the industry and will offer more opportunities as new equipment arrives. Each year practically all of the Meyers seniors are employed part time before graduation. Upon graduation they usually become full-time employees for the same industries.

In the electric shop the student is well instructed in the fundamentals of electricity, receiving specialized training in residential wiring and motor winding.

The automotive shop is a large, spacious, well-equipped shop where young men are trained to enter the automotive industry. Students prepare for positions as auto mechanics, mechanics' helpers, gas station service men, parts specialists and distributors in auto sales and service.

In electronics technology a complete laboratory is available for the training of technicians. Extensive electronic instructional and testing panels and equipment have been installed. These units offer learning experiences that will equip the student in circuitry and fundamentals used in computers, data processors and electronic control systems. Since the space age began, technicians have been playing a most important part and will continue to do so as the space frontier expands.

Meyers offers a well balanced vocational-technical program to its students from which graduates may enter the industrial and technical world with dignity and pride.

The Responsibilities of Family Living

HOMELMAKING IS AN ART

To prepare girls for the responsibilities and activities involved in homemaking and family living, the Home Economics suite for Senior High School is arranged in three large areas. These are a modern kitchen with both electric and gas stoves, two refrigerators, a deep freeze and garbage disposal, a laundry area with a washer-drier combination and a large sewing room, equipped with electric sewing machines, a fitting area and storage cabinets.

The dining room area is furnished with a maple dining room suite, and the living room section features blonde mahogany furniture. The curtains in these areas were made by the Department.

The Homemaking Department functions as a service organization as well as an educational department. The girls taking homemaking learn by doing, for they furnish food and decorations for many school functions. The cooking department prepares the refreshments served at PTA meetings, the Senior Tea, the Key Club Luncheons, and proms. The sewing department helps with prom decorations, special holiday and dance decorations, and costumes for dramatic events.

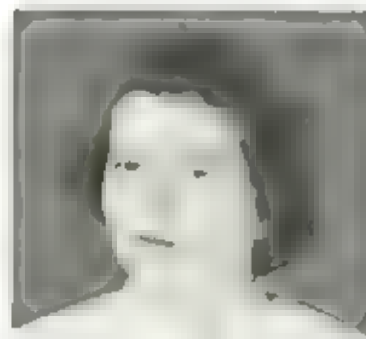

This department also sponsors the Betty Crocker Homemaker award, given each year to the senior girl having the highest score in a test administered here. This year the award was received by Linda Weidow.

The Art Department

Art Education on the Junior High School level is required two periods per week and in the ninth-grade one period per week. Some students realize they have no outstanding talent for drawing, but enjoy the projects, such as creating papier mache animals, making special holiday pictures, cutting linoleum blocks, making prints, or applying good lettering to school posters. Sometimes the work is hard, especially when perspective drawing, color mixing, and color-harmony are being studied; but any worthwhile experience requires study.

In tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades art is an elective subject and covers a wide range. The course is planned to teach fundamental drawing, composition, design and to develop skills in various mediums. Students with talent find the opportunity for expression and creation exciting.

Art instruction is dedicated to the proposition that the most important product of art is a well-adjusted individual with open avenues to hobbies, interests, and cultural enjoyment.

MR. JOSEPH SABLE

Mr. Joseph Sable directs an instrumental class.

Music, another cultural subject in our school curriculum, also provides students with personal enrichment. At Meyers opportunities are provided for enrichment in vocal and instrumental music, offering courses in both fields. The aim is to extend the pupil's knowledge of music that is of a higher level than previously encountered and to enrich the field of musical experience through listening to fine music that the school cannot produce itself. The department tries to vitalize musical understanding and integrate musical expression through correlating music with the other subjects. The pupil is given some knowledge of the history of music, an introduction to some of the great composers and performers, and becomes better acquainted with the choirs and instruments forming the symphony orchestra.

Music is a vital force in our world culture because of the moral, spiritual, aesthetic, and human values. The youth of today are the potential leaders of tomorrow who will be guided in their thinking and growth by the way they feel.

MISS BEATRICE ROSENTHAL

The Health and Physical Education program at Meyers is set up so that each student will attain a high degree of physical fitness, as well as moral, mental, social and spiritual fitness.

Physical fitness is a basic objective in the field of Physical Education. It is essential that all students appreciate the value of physical development so the foundation skills of sports and other activities may then be used with confidence and pleasure.

Our Physical Education Department is set up so that every boy and girl has one or two hours of Physical Education each week. These classes consist of marching tactics, exercises, skill work in games and the actual playing of the games. Good sportsmanship and teamwork are learned through participation in these games.

Intramural programs are set up in basketball for boys and volleyball and basketball for girls.

Every student is also given an opportunity to learn and improve his swimming ability in our two beautiful pools. Many skills are taught, including the Red Cross Water Safety Program.

Our school Health Education program is offered for one period per week in Junior High School and is a major subject in tenth grade. It provides a knowledge and understanding based on scientific facts and principles which may be used to develop desirable health attitudes and behavior.

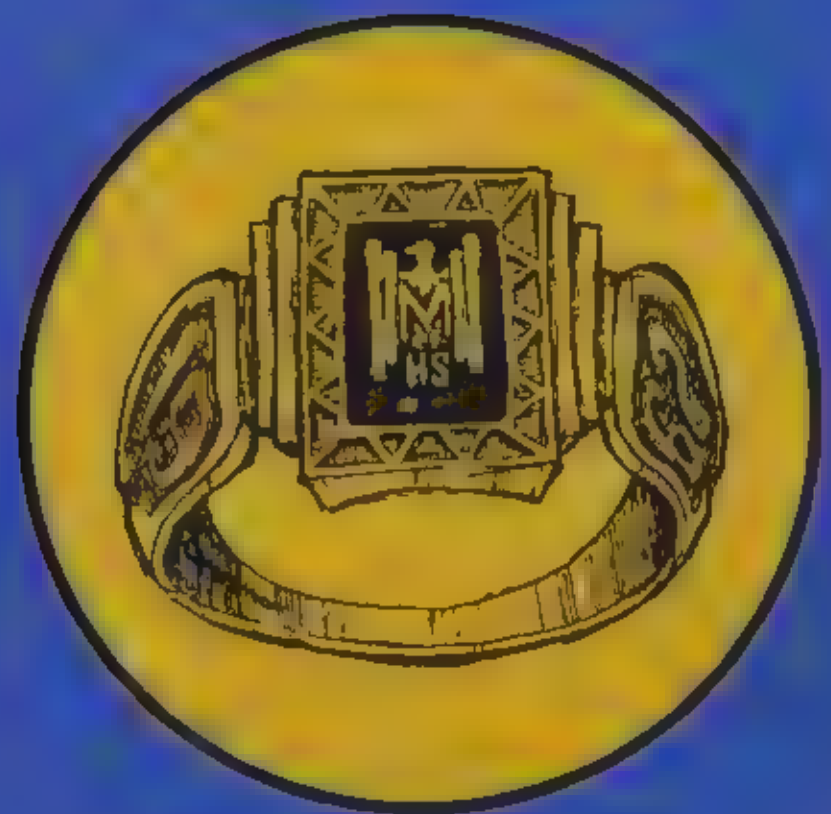

Good health results not just from reading about it, but from daily practice of good health habits. We try to build these habits in the daily living of high school boys and girls. Students learn to understand themselves and their problems, to present good personal appearance, to keep their bodies functioning in a healthy manner, to strengthen self-direction through understanding of the way the nervous system works, to develop healthy personalities, to share in community work of preventing communicable and organic diseases and to prevent serious accidents to themselves and others in the home, at school and on the highway. The theory of Driver Education is also offered in the Health Education Course.

Below, gym classes make use of the school facilities for tumbling, baseball, and gymnastics.

SENIOR PROM

"Fantasy in Frost," this year's Senior Prom, was held in the cafeteria on February third. The decorations for the theme, originated by Nancy Miller and Judie Walton, were featured in blue and silver. To complete the picture of this gala affair, there was the wonderful music of the orchestra under the expert direction of Mr. Donlin.

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the Queen. Chosen by the Seniors from six candidates representing each senior homeroom, Claire Fedak was crowned "Queen of the Senior Prom." The five members of her court were Joyce Callahan, Julianne Hudock, Brenda Peters, Judie Walton, and Linda Weidow.

The excitement and sparkle of the whole atmosphere truly made it a night to be remembered.

Senior Tea

What do you want in your tea?

My! That looks delicious

Music for entertainment.

Annually, the members of the Senior class honor their mothers at a tea before Christmas in the cafeteria. This year the tea was held on the afternoon of December 7. Superintendent and Mrs. Walter C. Wood, Principal and Mrs. H. Leon Gilbert, Assistant Principal and Mrs. John M. Davies received the guests with Senior class officers. Two silver tea services and candelabra adorned the table with its decor of silver and green. Background music was provided by Richard Wood and Dianne Garrison at the electric organ. The ladies who poured were mothers of class officers and mothers who are employed in the city schools themselves or whose husbands are teachers or school directors in Wilkes-Barre. The Senior Tea is traditional, as well as a highlight of the senior year

Are we too early

"You Can't Take It With You"

On the afternoon of March 29 and the evening of March 30, 1962, there was high excitement backstage at Meyers. These were the matinee and evening performances of the Senior play, You Can't Take It With You, by Kaufman and Hart, a farce concerning a zany family who dared to be different.

The cast of characters and the set created by the Stage Crew, under the direction of Mr. Robert Jacobs, combined to make this an outstanding high school production. Miss Charlotte Lord, director, used her wide background in the theater to bring out the best in a large cast of novices. All roles were commendable for talent and for carefully built character detail.

Backstage, assistant directors, prompters, and many committees worked on make-up, props, light effects, curtain, and other requirements to get the show "on the boards." Out front, Senior ticket collectors and Senior usherettes contributed efficiency and glamour. The Senior orchestra was in the pit to play a fitting overture and gay entr'acte music. It was another successful project of the class of '62.

You'll go to jail if you don't pay!

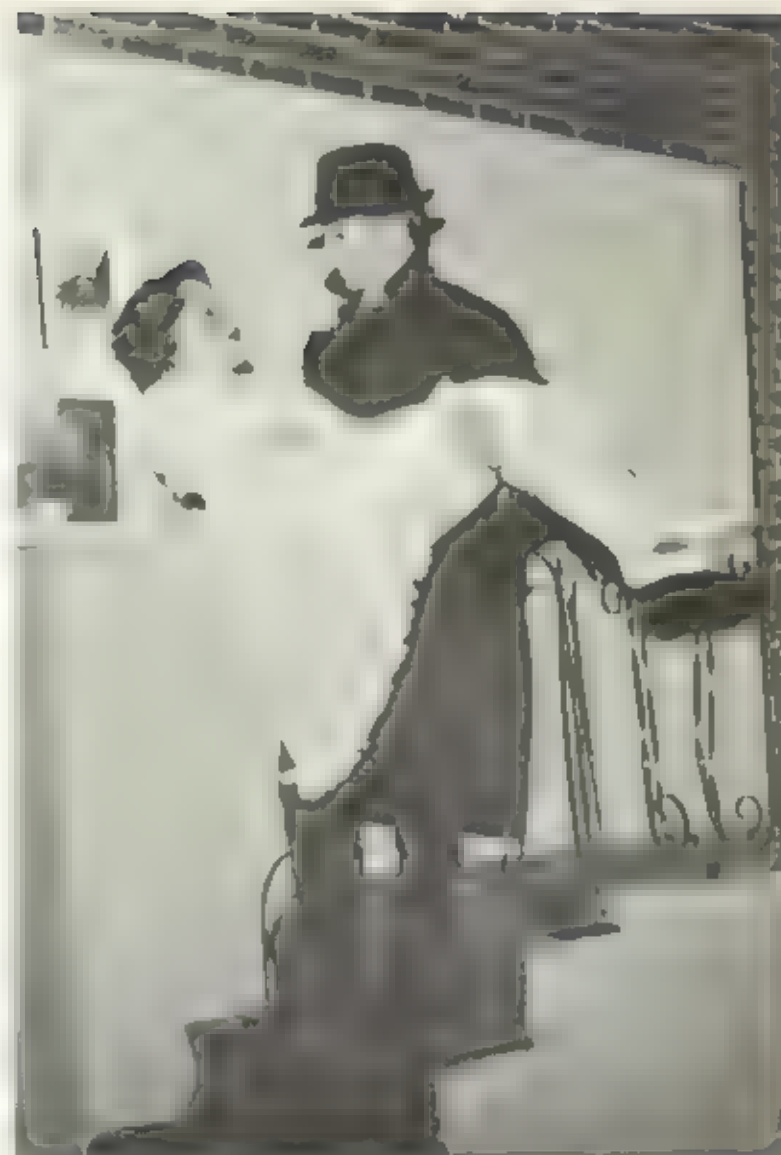

Mr. De Pinna, has something happened to your figure?

Stay right where you are, everybody!

Thomas Skyler and Vivian Baumhaft were honored for their high performance in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test given last spring. The students were presented with a formal letter of commendation signed by Mr. Gilbert and John M. Stalnaker, president of the N.M.S.C.

Linda Weidow, a Senior, was named the Meyers American Homemaker of Tomorrow. Winners were chosen on the basis of their scores in a 50-minute written examination on home making knowledge and attitudes. A "Homemaker of Tomorrow" pin and a personal letter of congratulations were presented to her. This contest which is sponsored by General Mills is designed to stimulate interest in the art of homemaking.

Steve Goodman and Andrea Tomasko represented Meyers at the Middle Atlantic Physical Science Symposium, sponsored jointly by Temple University and the U. S. Army Ordnance Department, at Temple University in Philadelphia from 11 through October 25. While in Philadelphia, they lectures and toured laboratories where they observed through scientific research at work.

Sharon Johnson was cited for being one of forty students in the United States chosen to attend Howard University, Washington, D.C., last summer. She attended the University for eight weeks where she studied mathematics and glass blowing and did research on the effects of radiation on food.

Linda Williams has been named the Meyers winner of the Good Citizenship Contest sponsored by the Wyoming Valley Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. This award was based on dependability, service, leadership, patriotism, the approval of the faculty committee, and the completion of a test on "Our National Government."

The sixth annual Science Fair competition of the Wilkes-Barre City High Schools was held in the gymnasium of Coughlin High School. Paul Counterman, in the picture above, of the Junior High School was first-prize winner in the Eighth Grade Science division. Frank Gegwich, a Senior, placed as a semifinalist in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. The test was given in about 15,000 schools across the country. Frank was one of approximately 1,000 semifinalists, 10 of whom were area students.

Robert Orner and Edward Kordek represented Meyers this year at the annual State Band Festival. Robert, a Senior, made first chair for the saxophonists and Edward, a sophomore, played oboe. Both scored highest on their instruments at auditions held at Wilkes College prior to the Festival.

A Spanish Award has been given annually by Miss Watkins to the Senior with the highest average for the two-year course. This year's winner is Linda Williams, who has shown outstanding scholastic aptitude in her Spanish classes.

ADVISORS, MISS CHARLOTTE LORD
MR. ANTHONY YUKNAVICH

These people are members of the Colophon staff and are largely responsible for its publication. Personnel were selected after each prospective member had filled out an application at the beginning of the school year. All forms were considered on the basis of ability, school record, and the need for people in the department where the applicant evinced interest.

This year's staff, headed by Linda Williams, editor-in-chief, was divided into five sections, with an associate editor for each. The opening section was prepared by Vivian Baumhaff. The academic section was under the direction of Linda Williams, and Sharon Johnson supervised the Senior section. Shirley Engler arranged the underclassmen, and Frank Gegwich took charge of activities. Joe Powell supervised the athletic section. The remaining members were placed in one of the five divisions or worked in branching divisions, such as typing, art, or photography.

Putting out a yearbook is an educational activity which teaches students journalistic writing, some of the intricacies of printing, handling of interviews, accuracy, and persistence. The aim of the staff, as always, was to give Meyers an interesting and inclusive yearbook.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Advisor: Mr. Fuller Grenawalt

The Student Council governs democratically. Everyone can participate in policy making and administration through representatives, two from each homeroom, elected by the student body at the end of each academic year. The candidates must meet requirements of citizenship and scholastic achievement.

The Student Council acts upon issues confronting the student body during the year and conducts school and service campaigns. The representatives have charge of the magazine campaign, the Elmprint subscription campaign, and the Colophon patron and subscription campaigns within their respective homerooms.

The Council this year sponsored a Cafeteria Improvement program to upgrade behavior and conditions in the school cafeteria. Two projects for the benefit of worthwhile organizations were also undertaken. They were the Retreat Campaign to collect material for the patients of Retreat State Hospital, and the Bundle Day Drive to obtain clothing for needy families.

The Student Council, meets at regular intervals to conduct its business. A student who wishes to voice his opinion on any school matter may contact his homeroom representative, who will bring the matter to the attention of the Council.

This organization gives some students the opportunity to function as a part of a governing body and allows everyone to practice the right and privilege of self-government.

Student Council

An organization is only as efficient as its leaders. No group can function properly unless it is guided by a core of competent executives. Besides conducting meetings, the Student Council officers do the preliminary planning and the coordinating that are necessary for the success of their many campaigns. The committee chairman, aided by volunteer members of the council, concentrate on specific responsibilities. The Student Council also plans for the future. Two of the officers and two of the committee chairmen are Juniors who will supply invaluable executive experience on next year's Council

The Junior Honor Society is comprised of freshmen and sophomores; the Senior Honor Society of juniors and seniors. Both are chapters of National Societies. The Honor Societies are perhaps the most respected of all the clubs. The requirements are imposing. The individual's semester grades are averaged; and, if the standards are met, the student's name is submitted to a council of teachers appointed by the principal. These teachers, who know the student personally, evaluate his character, leadership, and service to the school. They then elect him if they deem him worthy of admission. A pin in the shape of a keystone and torch is presented to him in a ceremony at which he takes the following oath: "I pledge myself to uphold the high purposes of the National Honor Society to which I have been elected. I will be loyal at all times to Meyers High School and will do my best to maintain and encourage high standards of scholarship, character, leadership, and service. I will remember that the primary purpose of school is getting an education. And, finally, I pledge myself to serve my school, my community, and my country to the best of my ability." If the scholastic average and character evidence are not sustained, the student forfeits membership and is not readmitted.

The school newspaper is called the Elmprint. This publication has been in existence since the school opened in 1931. Even during the war years the Meyers presses rolled on, when many other school newspapers stopped publication. This year the Meyers print shop has been busy with the biggest, best Elmprints ever to entertain and inform the student body and the faculty.

How can the Elmprint manage to give such quality merchandise for the low price of seventy-five cents for thirteen issues? This year, in addition to the annual subscription drive, a very successful dance was held, and with the profits the Elmprint introduced many new features

A large staff of high-ranking students work on the newspaper. This staff is divided into two groups each having its own editor. These two groups alternately plan twelve issues; the last issue is a joint effort. At a group meeting the editor and his reporters discuss and plan the format for the next edition. Articles are assigned, proof-read, a dummy made, and the presses roll.

Besides the usual accounts of the academic, scholastic, and club activities, the Elmprint adds flavor with its fashion news, original poetry, humorous short stories, and, of course, gossip columns. Captioned pictures of many seniors as "tiny tots" and clever cartoon sheets add the icing. Thus, the Elmprint indeed fulfills its platform, which states that as your school paper it will attempt to report accurately student-faculty news, to publicize important school events, to improve student-faculty relations, to provide interesting and entertaining reading for the student body, and to serve as a permanent record of each school year.

A vote of thanks to all who worked on our school publication this year! The events of another school year have been recorded

The Key Club, a service organization sponsored by the Wilkes-Barre Kiwanis Club, is composed of a limited number of dynamic sophomores, juniors, and seniors. The goal of the Key Club, the training of future leaders, is aptly expressed in its motto, "We build."

The Key Club serves Meyers and the community. This year, the boys have collected canned food for the needy, sung carols for the women at the Old Ladies' Home, conducted a clean-up campaign in the school, and arranged to purchase a new lectern for the stage. In addition, the Key Club has raised the necessary funds to bring another foreign exchange student to Meyers. Pim Hazewindus, from the Netherlands, our present exchange student, has proved himself a valuable asset both for his contribution to international understanding and his quiet, charming wit.

Because of its lengthy list of contributions and successes, the Key Club has earned its reputation for being one of our most active and progressive groups.

A. F. S. SUMMER EXCHANGE STUDENTS

AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE

Last July 5, 6, and 7 thirty-five Meyers High School students and their families were again privileged to serve as hosts to thirty-five of the seventy American Field Service foreign exchange students who had come to our community for a visit. The remainder of the A.F.S. students were guests of Coughlin and G.A.R. students.

Their stay in Wilkes-Barre was part of a three-week bus tour which American Field Service provides for all of its 2,000 foreign exchange students. The seventy boys and girls who visited our city represented twenty-nine countries.

While here, the A.F.S. students were entertained at small dinner parties arranged by their hosts. They enjoyed a swim in Miner Park pool and a cook-out in Meyers Stadium, followed by a dance in the girls' gym. A conducted historical tour of Wyoming Valley was also arranged.

Perhaps the event most interesting to the host students and their families was the panel discussion in which several of the foreign students participated. At this time they gave their impressions of the past year which all of them had spent with an American family while attending their senior year in a United States high school.

It was with mixed emotions that "goodbyes" were said on the third morning of the visit. There was joy at having found a new friend from a distant land and sadness that the time for departure had come so soon. However, all agreed that it had been a wonderful experience which had served to create a better understanding of people of other nations.

KEGIAN SOCIETY

Advisor: Mrs. Alice Schappert

One of our oldest and most popular clubs is the Kegian Society. Its members, the Kegians, perform many of the tasks necessary to keep the library functioning smoothly and efficiently. At various times, all Kegians have the experience of storing magazines, reading shelves, doing circulation, and stamping books.

Students in grades eight and nine who have a good academic record and are recommended by the teachers are eligible to become Junior Kegians. After gaining practical library experience, the Junior Kegians may become Senior Kegians in their sophomore year if they prove to be conscientious workers and an asset to the library. Each year the Kegians must earn their quota of "credits" which represent hours they have worked to maintain their membership in the society

Besides doing their library chores, the Kegians sponsor an annual dance to earn money to subsidize the Kegian outing, which is held at the end of the school year. The Kegian Society showed its enthusiasm for the Meyers exchange student program by voting unanimously to present Pim, our exchange student, with his senior ring. At the end of the school year, the senior members of the Kegian Society are awarded a pin and a certificate in recognition of their service. The Kegians are proud to render their school service cheerfully and efficiently.

Passing the Band Room any morning or activity period during football season, one can hear stirring marches, rousing school songs, and popular novelty numbers. The high school band is especially active during this season, providing music for pep rallies and adding color to the football games by presenting excellent half-time shows.

As soon as football season ends, the Band members slow their hectic pace and begin the work of preparing for their annual show. The Band and Modern Choir concert, held the evening of April 13, gave the instrumentalists and vocalists the opportunity to appear formally before a large audience.

The Band is asked to participate in local parades during the course of the year. Each year outstanding musicians attend a District Band Festival. Meyers was represented this year by Robert Orner and Edward Kordek.

Band members are able to increase their instrumental skill by functioning as members of a coordinated musical group, but they work hard to qualify and to remain eligible for membership.

At the beginning of the school year many hopeful students "try out" for Modern Choir and anxiously wait to learn whether they've made it. All the members are chosen for vocal excellence. In weekly rehearsals the Choir prepares for the Christmas chapel program. Also, during the holiday season carols are sung in the halls.

With the new year comes preparation for another program — the annual Modern Choir and Band Concert. This is the ne plus ultra of Choir activity. Mr. Sable's months of drill are evidenced in the many-faceted concert.

Occasionally an invitation is accepted to perform for another school or organization. Each year a few members are chosen to participate in the Pennsylvania Music Educators Association District Chorus Festival. These vocalists sing because they love to, and their enthusiastic programs increase the esthetic appreciation of the student body.

JUNIOR ORCHESTRA

Director: Mr. Arthur Dawe

The main function of the Junior Orchestra is to provide music for all the junior high school chapel programs. This it does faithfully. Mr. Dawe also rehearses the musicians once a week in preparation for the Junior Musical. Much work goes into this production and the results are commendable. Members normally advance to the Senior Orchestra.

SENIOR ORCHESTRA

Director: Mr. Joseph Sable

The Senior Orchestra has played the processional and recessional for all senior and combined chapel programs. It occasionally has featured special arrangements of show tunes and popular songs for the entertainment of the assembly. The orchestra played an overture and entr' acte music at the Senior play. The orchestra traditionally provides dignified music for Commencement. It is sad to note that the orchestra is allotted only one rehearsal a week. However, Mr. Sable's drive and the members' ready skill accomplish much in that short time.

MELODY CLUB

Director: Mrs. Lois Maynard

The Melody Club gives seventh grade students who are fond of singing an opportunity to develop their vocal talents. Even though she has a busy schedule Mrs. Maynard devotes her time and attention to these students and their interest in music. Any seventh grade boy or girl may "try out" for the group. They have a meeting every Wednesday, seventh period, in the Music Room. Members of the club sing frequently in chapel. This gives the upperclassmen an opportunity to hear and appreciate our new school citizens. Besides singing in chapel, they prepare diligently for their annual spring concert, the Junior Musical. Mrs. Maynard, absent from school due to an injury, was capably replaced by Mrs. William D. Roberts, supervisor of music of the city schools. Participation in the Melody Club provides invaluable experience for future musical endeavors.

GLEE CLUB

Director: Mrs. Lois Maynard

The Glee Club affords the opportunity for development of vocal talent and skill. Its members, students of the eighth and ninth grades, broaden their experience in large and small group harmony, as well as in solo performances. This music is of greater length and maturity of style than that used in the regular class lessons. Annually the Glee Club presents a pleasurable Christmas program, featuring beautiful and beloved carols, and a spring concert. As a result of their valuable training, the Glee Club members are prepared to participate in more advanced vocal groups in the school and the community.

Bank Cashiers

Advisor: Miss Charlotte Lord

Head Cashier: Edward Kenney

In the hurried minutes before classes begin Monday morning, conscientious homeroom bank cashiers receive and record deposits in the student banking program. The head cashier accepts the deposits and dispatches them to the First Federal Savings and Loan Association where they are recorded in the students' accounts.

Each homeroom has an assistant who performs the banking duties in the absence of the cashier. If the head cashier is indisposed, two assistants assume the responsibilities.

This convenient school banking service facilitates systematic saving and encourages thrift among students, many of whom anticipate senior year expenses or save with some other purpose in mind. Whatever the whys and wherefores, this service helps students acquire the invaluable habit of thrift.

Bulletin Couriers

The bulletin — that potpourri of absentee and repartee — is distributed by interested persons who happen to have a third-period study hall each day. Chosen by Miss Sallie Carey, the criteria for service are cooperation and quietude. The bulletin includes a list of absentees, a weekly menu, reminders of club meetings, notices of special meetings, mannerly instruction, and notices of general or special interest to faculty and students. The distributors present the bulletin as unobtrusively as possible so as not to disturb the classes in session.

Office Practice Club

Advisor: Miss Anne Hughes

One of the new organizations this year is the Office Practice Club. Twenty commercial students selected on the basis of their school record, their ability to type, and their proficiency in operating the various machines make up the personnel of the club. Prospective members are asked to join, but are not compelled to do so.

The Office Practice Club functions as a school service organization. Under the direction of their advisor, the members assist the faculty by typing and mimeographing classroom material, such as test papers and work sheets. They work on call and are available during their free time.

The Office Practice Club is a welcome addition to the school. Ask the teachers who have had work done, and they will tell you that the club has saved them hours and hours of tedious work.

Office Assistants

Advisor: Miss Ruth Evans

Office Assistants work in the school's business office. These girls are Senior Commercial students who have superior academic standing. The training gives them valuable experience in office practice before applying for positions out of school. Assignments include answering the telephone, typing the daily bulletins and the mid-year and final examinations. In order to have a capable force for the next year, Junior girls who have maintained a good average in their courses are also brought in and trained. The assistants help to keep the office in efficient working order.

The Junior-Senior Y-Teens and the Freshman-Sophomore Y-Teens are separate but similar organizations. Affiliated with the local and national Y.W.C.A., they have two regularly scheduled monthly meetings, one of which is held during activity period in school while the other is held in the evening at the Y.W.C.A.

These young women are to uphold the Christian standard at all times, and they are ready to do volunteer work. Often members have been known to spend many hours caring for children or doing general office work for the Y.W.C.A.

Both clubs have varied activities. They sponsor dances, hay rides, bake sales, and car washes. They also have service projects; for example, this year the Junior-Senior Y-Teens sang carols for children in the hospital at Christmas time. To show their desire to promote better international relations, they, with the Key Club, organized the "Holland Hop," a dance whose entire profits were donated to the foreign exchange student fund. Besides activities within their own club, they participate in the annual "Miss Y-Teen Contest." One Senior girl, who has done outstanding work for her club, is nominated to represent her school in the contest which is climaxed by a gala prom during the holiday season.

The constant activity of these dedicated young women shows their enthusiasm and devotion to the Christian ideals of their organizations.

Stage Crew

Advisor: Miss Charlotte Lord

The boys of the stage crew handle all the numerous tasks connected with chapel and special productions, such as the Senior play. These technical experts adjust the lighting, test the public address system, or change a stage backdrop. During performances, they are responsible for raising and lowering the curtains and providing special effects on cue. Few people realize the tremendous amount of work that a crew does backstage to insure the success of a production. A brief mention on the program is usually the only recognition that they receive. In many ways, the stage crew members are the unpublicized leading men of our well co-ordinated performances.

The M-Club has the heroic charge of improving conduct, sportsmanship and scholarship of the school athletes in the Grecian pattern of "a sound mind in a sound body." This organization, consisting of boys who have earned a letter, strives to meet and strengthen its ideals. In the course of the year, the members purchased sorely needed team equipment, sponsored the Pigskin Prom, helped with the All-Sports Dinner, and presented jackets to the Senior athletes. These select boys are aware of the cardinal importance of training the mind, as well as the body. In their way, they combine Spartan puissance with Athenian perspicacity.

Sophomore Dramatic Club

Directors:

Miss Albertine Lersch

Miss Josephine Lenahan

The Sophomore's Dramatic Club was organized in October, 1961. The primary goal is to instill a greater literary interest in plays and love for dramatics. It marks the first time in many years that the Sophomores have had their own dramatic club. The enrollment includes forty-five students.

They presented a very fine comedy, "The Pot Boiler," on February 23 to the Junior High School and on March 2 to the Senior High.

On March 5 the members attended the tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet," at King's College.

There were many added features besides the regular business meetings which were enjoyed by its members. At the close of the year the members of the Club had an outing at Eurana Park, Weatherly, Pa.

Clean Speech Committee

Advisor: Miss Ruth Merrel

The words which a person uses reflect his intelligence and his culture. A group of responsible students were concerned about the careless, coarse expressions used in school by some persons. With the guidance of a faculty sponsor, they formed the Clean Speech Committee which organized a spirited campaign against offensive language. Posters constantly reminded students that "A curse isn't a cure," and excited individuals were urged to "Say swell instead." Besides using posters, the members of the committee set a good example for the school by the language which they use themselves. A Junior high school program at which the Reverend Nahas and Mrs. Horace Kramer guested to speak of the virtues and beauty of fine language further whetted student interest and concern. Since offensive language is a lasting problem, underclassmen are urged to join the committee and provisions have been made to continue their work.

Hall Patrol

Sponsored by the Student Council, the Hall Patrol enforces the rules and regulations for conduct in the corridors. Its members, all volunteers, are excused from class three minutes early so that they may be at their assigned posts when classes begin to move. Their insignia, a blue band with gold letters H. P., is respected throughout the school because of the firm but friendly manner in which they perform their duties.

The Lunch Patrol, organized by the Student Council Safety Committee, enforces regulations in the halls during lunch periods. Its members are allowed to leave class early so that they may be at their posts when lunch period begins. One of their more important duties is to check lunch leave passes at the main exits so that only authorized persons leave the building during lunch periods. The conscientiousness of these people who serve without tangible reward deserves commendation.

The Pen Pal Club is the largest and most popular organization in the junior high school. Perhaps its wealth of supporters can be attributed to the universal appeal of letter writing, which becomes even more exciting when it is directed overseas. The Pen Pal Club members discuss many fascinating topics with their foreign friends. Their correspondence helps to dispel many false impressions held about nations of the world. The members meet regularly in the auditorium to share their correspondence and to exchange addresses. They are increasing their knowledge and understanding of other countries through personal, written contacts.

CHESS CLUB

Sponsor: Mr. James Aikens

The noble Persian game of chess, with its pieces symbolizing the political, social, and military forces of two opposing armies, is enjoyed by a small but avid group. They appreciate the unique qualities of the game and sharpen their wits with the careful cogitation and calculation which a good chess match requires. With the helpful advice and encouragement of their sponsor, novices learn the game and masters increase their skill and finesse. Several times during the year, this camaraderie of "check" clashes with enthusiasts from other schools. It is only because of modesty and pride that the results of these matches are not made known to the general public.

STAMP CLUB

STAMP CLUB

Sponsor: Mr. Robert Payne

Stamp collectors revolve in an orbit of their own. Their hobby educates them painlessly, for commemorative and general issue stamps highlight outstanding events and people, thus illuminating history and current affairs.

The philatelists of Meyers have organized an enterprising club. In addition to the usual discussions of stamps in the news and the trading period thereafter, a frequent feature of the meetings is the visit of an authority. Several speakers from the Post Office and elsewhere have come to edify this group. The value of this club is manifest in the enthusiasm and interest of the members.

Mohawks Have

All-Time Record-Breaking Season

Before the start of the 1961 football season, Meyers had taken the conference championships of 1959 and 1960. Although this was a fine achievement, it had been done by other teams in the Wyoming Valley Conference.

In August of 1961, when practice first began, the Mohawks looked as any team would at the start of a new season. By September our three fine coaches, Mr. Jones, Mr. Gimble and Mr. McDaniels, had the varsity team chosen and had made them aware of the rough season ahead. All the Mohawks knew they had a hard trail to blaze to victory.

On the afternoon of September 16, the Mohawks had their first real test of the season. The game was with the Nanticoke Rams and was at Nanticoke's Lincoln Stadium. The many loyal fans of Meyers had a terrible scare during this game. As Nanticoke had a team of only average ability, they were fighting hard and kept us to a scoreless first half. When the second half got under way, the Mohawks looked like an entirely different team. They took advantage of every one of Nanticoke's mistakes and were finally able to score during the third quarter. The honor of making the first score of the season went to Senior halfback, Frank Nockley, who took the ball and ran around right end for the touchdown. George Gimble connected for the extra point and Meyers lead 7-0 over the Rams. A second touchdown by George Gimble during the fourth quarter gave the Mohawks a final victory score of 13-0.

The next game for the Mohawks was under the lights, and the Swoyerville Sailors were the host team. Although the Sailors did not have a successful season, they were doing their best to overpower the Mohawks. But their determination wasn't enough, and both Bill Vetter and Gordon Kutz scored in the first period. The most exciting point of the game was a seventy-five yard touchdown run on the Sailors kickoff by Lee Namey. Other Mohawk scorers of the game included George Gimble and Sophomore end, Bill Harding. The Sailors also scored, but the final score was 38-12 for the Mohawks.

Larksville was the next opponent of the Mohawks, who were well on their way in the season. At fourth quarter, the Mohawks were leading 35-0; but Larksville started to put pressure against the third and fourth string Mohawks and had scored 19 points when the final whistle blew. The game ended 35-19, with Bill Vetter scoring eighteen points for Meyers.

The fourth game was a non-conference game but was a battle of unlimited importance for the Mohawks. The opposing team was the Hazleton Mountaineers, who, by many qualified sport-analysts, was the best football club of eastern Pennsylvania. The game was played in Hazleton's stadium. In the early moments, Hazleton completed a fifty-yard pass. Within a few plays Hazleton had scored the first touchdown and the extra point. Then it was the Mohawks' turn. George Gimble threw the ball to end Lee Namey. As Namey was being tackled, he gave the ball to the other end, Dale Nicholson, who ran for the touchdown. Each team scored again and the score stood at 13-12 with the Mountaineers out in front. The climax of the game came when the Mohawks had the ball on about the twenty-five yard line of the Mountaineers. The team was in a field goal stance, when the ball was kicked and Gordon Kutz connected for a forty-one yard field goal. The score stood at 15-13 and the Mohawks had won again.

The following week the Mohawks were home again and facing the Plymouth Shawnees. The Shawnees were trying hard to win, but once again the Mohawks proved too strong for their opponents. The score at the first Farewell . . .

JACK JONES

A superior coach, Mr. John T. Jones brought honor and fame to Meyers High School during his stay. He left Meyers in March, 1962, for a position as scout and assistant football coach at Temple University.

Before becoming a coach he attended Syracuse University, Bucknell University, University of Scranton, and also Wilkes College. His major areas of study were biology and education. For one year he was assistant football coach at West Pittston High School and head coach there for five years. Joining the Meyers faculty in 1958, he was a mathematics teacher and track coach, as well as head football coach.

The three history-making football championships started in 1959 with a perfect record of ten wins. In 1960, Meyers was defeated only once. The peak of his Meyers career came when the 1961 team took the Wyoming Valley Title for the third successive year. It was the first time a team had ever done this since the establishment of the conference, which dates back to the early 1900's.

We say good luck and best wishes for even greater successes in the collegiate football world.

period was 7-0 in favor of the Mohawks. As the game progressed, the Mohawks seemed to get stronger, and by the final quarter the score was 45-0. In the final half the third and fourth strings looked as well-trained as teams in the conference. This is proved by stating that Sophomore quarterback Ken Mugford scored a ten-yard touchdown and that the backfield gained well over fifty yards in the final period.

Coughlin, out to win the city title, was the next competitor. The Mohawks were in good shape again and beat Coughlin 26-12, making their season total thus far six wins and no defeats.

With the season in its final half the Kingston eleven were out to knock the Mohawks off their pedestal. Kingston had had a winning season thus far and looked their best, but still they were defeated in a very close game. Kingston was noted for their extra-point kicker who had missed only two before this game. The score was 7-6 with the Mohawks out in front, when George Gimble threw a long pass to Dale Nicholson who ran over for the touchdown. Gordon Kutz made the score 14-6, with his second extra-point kick of the game. When Kingston scored another touchdown, they were unable to connect for the extra point, and the Mohawks won 14-12.

The next game was a losing cause for the team from Plains, as they were defeated by the Mohawks 40-0. The six touchdowns were all scored on short runs, but during the second period there was an exciting fifty-two yard run by Senior halfback Bob Ferrance. Also in this game Gordon Kutz connected for four extra points in six tries.

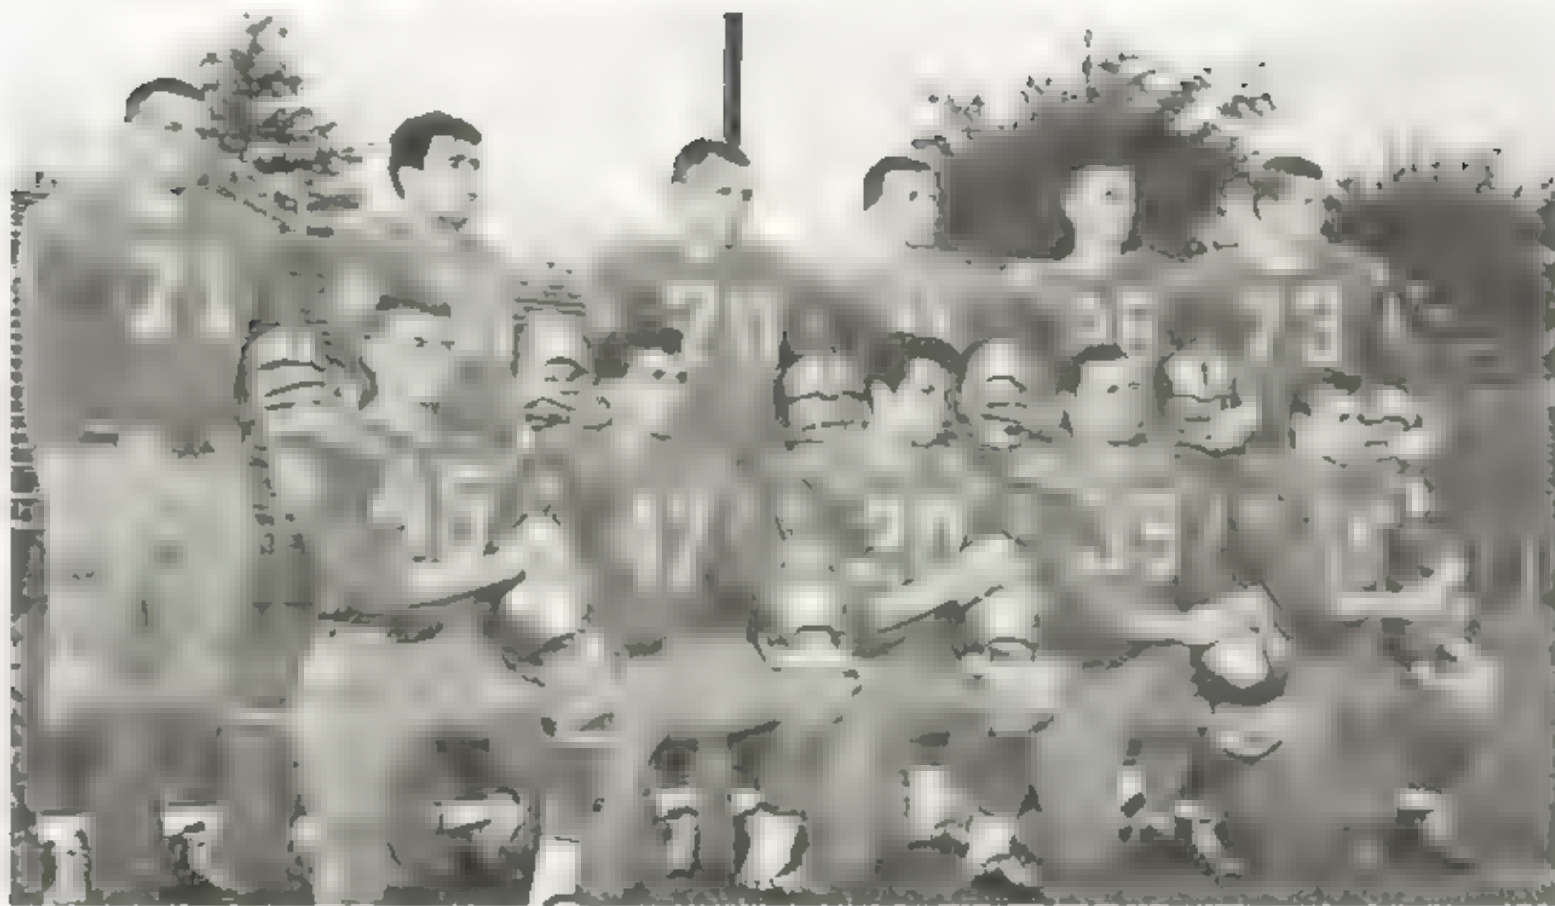

The ninth game of the season was the hardest one to bear. Upon receiving the Mohawks kickoff, the Hanover eleven showed great team cooperation and went all the way for a touchdown. Before the half Hanover had scored two more times and it looked as though the Mohawks had passed their peak. With the score standing at 19-0, George Gimble scored a touchdown right before halftime. Once again the Mohawks came back fighting in the second half. By the beginning of the final period the Mohawks were winning 20-19. But Hanover was still putting on pressure and came back to make the score 20-25. After this the Mohawks had no pity and scored three touchdowns to win the game 41-25.

The final game with our rivals from the hill, G.A.R., proved the Mohawks had to be victorious to take the conference title. The first touchdown was made by Senior fullback Richard Postupack. The Mohawks had great team-cooperation throughout the season, and the peak of this quality was shown by the tremendous block on a sixty-seven touchdown punt return by Bill Vetter. The score by the final period was 14-0. There was still a chance for the Grenadiers from G.A.R. to make a comeback. But these chances were soon wiped out when Rich Postupack scored his second touchdown in the game, making the final score 20-0.

The season had come to a close, with the Mohawks one-hundred percent successful. The Meyers Mohawks had won the third conference title, which had never before been done by any team since the beginning of the conference. The 1961 Meyers football team gave the students something to feel proud about and something which will never be forgotten.

CHEERLEADERS

From September to November ten energetic Senior High School girls can be seen preparing for the coming football games, pep meetings and band shows. These girls are selected at the end of their sophomore year to serve as cheerleaders. The qualifications needed are poise, pep, personality and high scholastic averages.

During the summer, the ten can be found at Miner Park, at least twice a week, practicing. It is at this time that the Seniors teach the Juniors the cheers and motions. After school opens and the sport season begins, they can be found after school, either in 114, the auditorium, or the gym, planning and practicing for the coming pep rally or game.

Dressed in white skirts and sweaters and wearing a gold Meyer's letter, these girls lead all cheers at the games and pep rallies. They also participate in all parades and most band shows. During wrestling and basketball seasons, they can also be seen on the floor or the sidelines leading the cheers.

At the end of her Senior year, each cheer leader is awarded the letter she wore during the year. This presentation is made by Mrs. Ruth Coulter, sponsor of the group.

Majorettes

MAJORETTES

What would football season be without fanfare? In addition to the band and the cheerleaders, the majorettes play an important part in adding to the color and enjoyment of the game, especially when they have the excitement of supporting a championship team three years in a row.

Many girls enthusiastically await the end of their freshman and sophomore years to try out. These girls are chosen, not only for their precise twirling, but also for their ability to march. Their chances are doubled if they have an alert smile and are peppy. From these girls the band chooses a leader. There is a summer of hard work, three times a week, to prepare for the coming year.

Football games are not the only events in which the majorettes participate. There are also pep meetings, parades, and concerts. For all these affairs the majorettes always have a sharp, original routine, suitable to the theme of the show, and bright, colorful outfits.

Strutters

One of the outstanding features of our pep meetings and football games is the strutters squad. The group consists of eighteen girls from the ninth through twelfth grades. They are selected in the spring for the succeeding year and must have certain qualifications: good scholastic standing, pleasing personality, and the ability to march and strut. Three captains are chosen each year from the Senior members. They must have leadership ability to direct weekly routines, which are created to go with the theme and music set up for the game. The squad also participates in many school and civic affairs, such as parades and concerts. The strutters are indeed a very colorful and dramatic part of the "show" and add to the prestige of the school.

Hockey

Hockey is one of two varsity sports for girls. Players must have speed, agility, and brains to make the team. During the first week of school, tryouts were held with twenty-six girls from grades nine through twelve selected for the team. Mrs. Phyllis Powell, a Meyers graduate, was a capable coach able to keep the morale of the team high. Elected captain was Pat McHugh with senior members, Pat Dillon, Ellen Lee Kivler, Sally Leonard, and Annette Lynch, alternating as co-captains.

The season started off with a tied Coughlin game, 1-1; and the second game was a win over G. A. R., 4-1. Succeeding scores favored opponents: Meyers 0, Clark Summit 5, Meyers 0, Kingston 6, Meyers 1, Clark Summit 6, Meyers 0, Wyoming Seminary 3; Meyers 0, Kingston 4. However, the girls again defeated G. A. R. Wyoming Seminary took the next game, 5-0. The 1961 hockey season ended for the team on November 2 when Coughlin and Meyers fought for the city championship. Coughlin won the game 3-1, but each girl on the team knew she had put up a good fight.

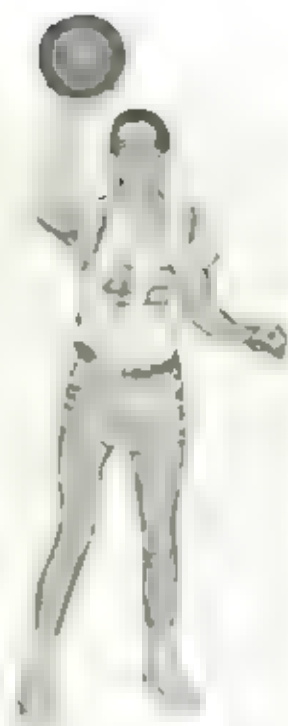

Fourteen members earned a letter by playing in ten or more halves of the ten scheduled games. Of these, three seniors received a blazer by earning a second letter.

Team Takes Second

This year's basketball season proved that a team united in spirit could and would win. With the entire school behind them, the boys chalked up a most impressive basketball record for Meyers.

At the beginning of the season the outlook was optimistic, for the Mohawks established a top non-league record and looked forward to league play. Plymouth was the first team to face the Mohawks on our homecourt. This game proved to be very exciting during every moment of play. Our boys played good ball but were squeezed out by a taller Plymouth team. A special ceremony, prior to the game, was sponsored by the Blue and Gold Club. This was the first year that this club honored our team with a turn-out of well-known school and sports enthusiasts.

The second game was against Nanticoke, the League "defending" Champions. Our team took an early lead over the Nans in an extremely well played game. However, we were beaten by a small margin. The Mohawks were now "feeling their oats" and were ready to take the lead on the court.

They met G.A.R. and scored an overwhelming triumph. In the next game with Newport, a scrapping little team, the boys played to the tee, edging Newport 75-72. Hanover was the next team to be vanquished by a score of 67-54. Then, we went on to play Kingston on our court. Kingston didn't have what it takes, so we scored a close 58-57 victory.

This ended the first-half of the season. The Mohawks had a 5 win-2 loss record and were likely to cop the city championship, having scored victories over both Coughlin and G.A.R. This was one of the best records a Mohawk basketball team achieved in many years.

Here are some of the first-half statistics: leading scorer was Bill Vetter — 116 points with an average of 16 points per game; Dale

Nicholson with 105 points and 15 points per game was the second leading scorer; George Gimble was next with 86 points, followed by Joe Koury and Gordie Kutz.

In the second half of League play, the first game with G.A.R. was an easy win. Then, the Mohawks played Plymouth and lost by a slim margin. The Mohawks lost a heartbreaker to Nanticoke in the third game before a capacity crowd. The next games proved very successful with victories over Coughlin and Hanover. The Mohawks went out to the last game with Kingston on our home court. The first half of the game was practically even in a rough tussle. In the final quarter the score was tied more than four times. Instead of playing zone defense as was the usual procedure, the game was played man for man. The Mohawks staged one of the best defensive games of one of the most exciting encounters of the whole season. We were finally overcome by a score of 58-56; however, the Meyers fans were content to see a terrific game between two outstanding teams.

However, not to be overlooked are the boys who didn't start in the games. These boys gave moral support to the team when the chips were down. These boys included: Jerry Coulter, Bob Kosher, Jim Miner, Paul Clemm, Stan Lee, and Joe Shimko.

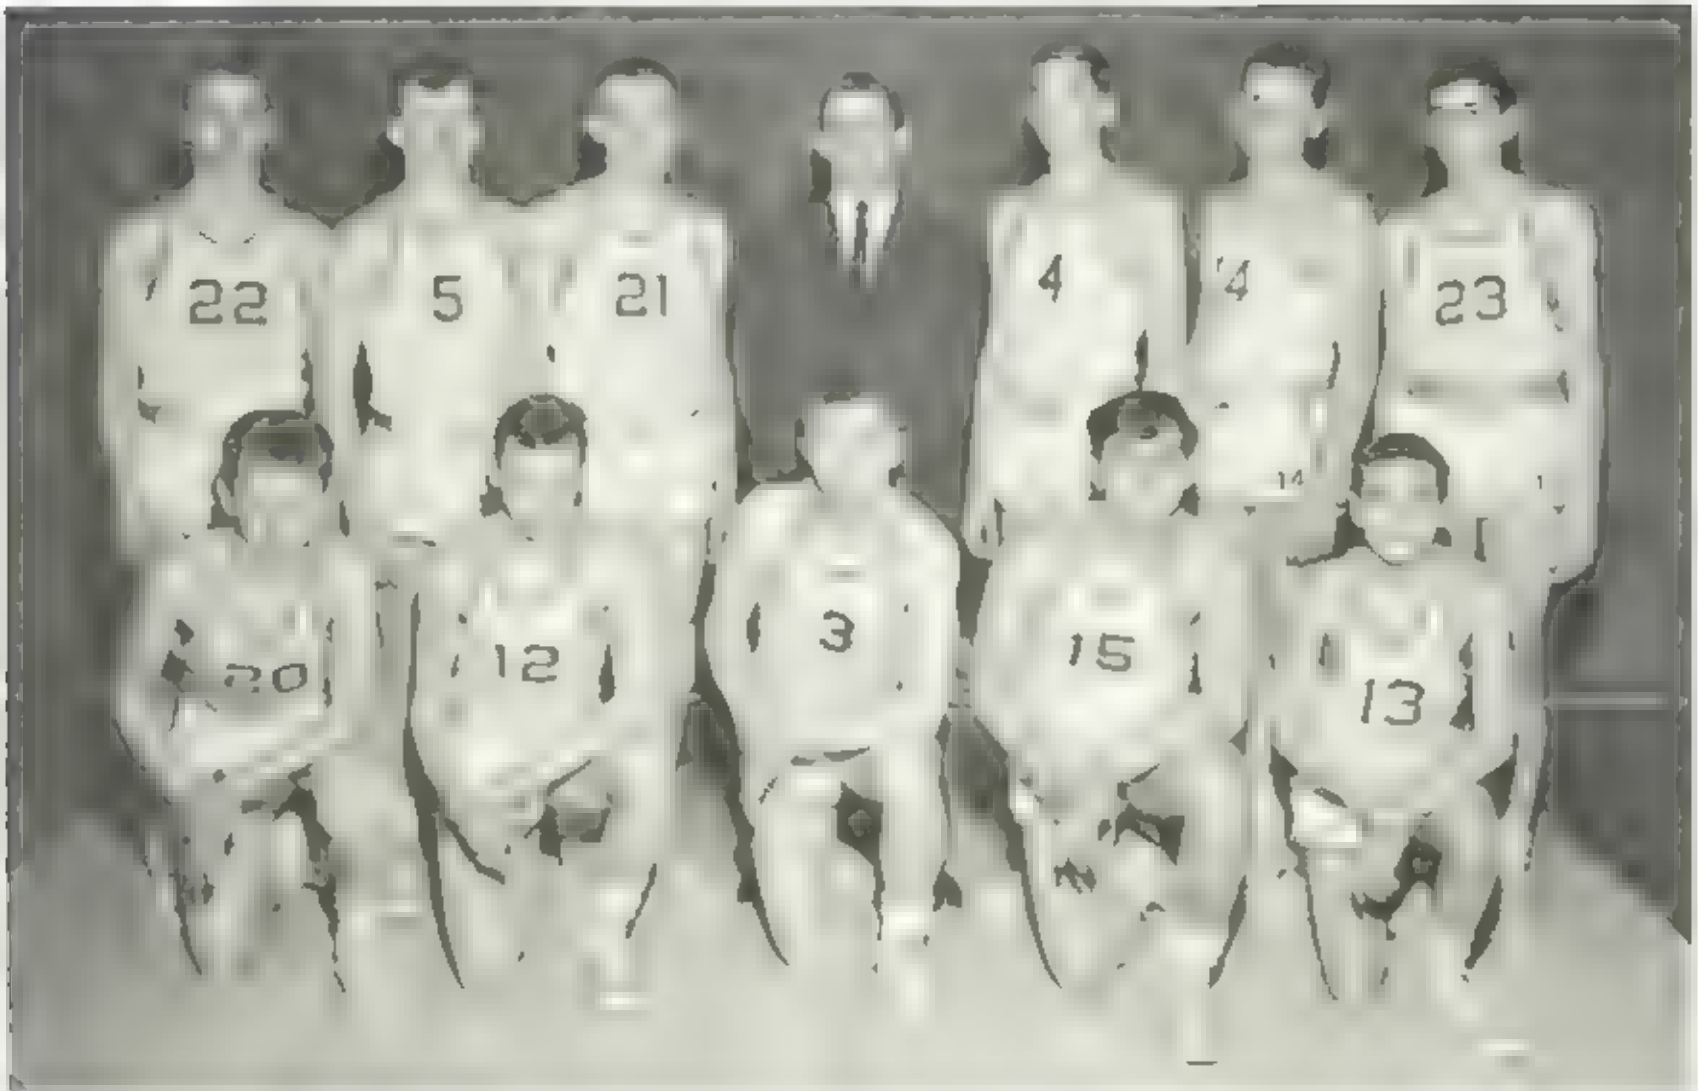

Our head basketball coach, Mr. Eugene Palladino, who is a history teacher, with his experience and understanding was one of the main reasons for the team's success. His coaching ability proved to be the margin of victory in many of our close games. He was capably assisted by Mr. Robert Gimble, also a math teacher here at Meyers.

To these two men the whole school owes a debt for having given their talent and ability to guide our team. Yes, with the entire school behind them, the basketball team had one of its most gratifying seasons.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

"THAT A GIRL, BARB"

The girls' varsity basketball team began its season on January 6, 1962. Eighteen girls practiced every day after school from 3:30 to 5:30. The team had their first challenge January 11 with Wyoming Seminary and lost by the close score of 37-33. January 15 they came back to defeat Saint Ann's 35-23. On the hill, the team was defeated by G.A.R. 45-37, but in the return game our girls defeated G.A.R. 45-37. January 23 the girls hit a winning streak with the defeats of West Side Central 44-39, G.A.R. 45-37, Kingston 42-37 and West Side 39-26. This landslide was stopped by victories for Wyoming Seminary 24-35, and Coughlin, 31-47 and 15-41. The team came back to win the last two games with Kingston and Saint Ann's, 50-29 and 38-10 respectively. Ending high scorer on the varsity team was Rosemary Yuhas with a total of 329 points. Other high scorers were Bonnie Gittens and Barbara Williams.

Wrestling Highlights

On December 9, 1961, the Meyers wrestlers began a most successful season by defeating the West Side Catholic High School, 25-24. To everybody's surprise and delight Gabe Serbin pinned his man. Good wrestling, considering this was his first year on the mat!

Then, one victory followed another. Forty Fort was defeated, 37-17. This meant much to Meyers fans because for several years the wins have gone to Forty Fort. One of the highlights was a 31-second pin by Ed Soltis in the unlimited class.

The Coughlin team went under next, 30-22. Although our boys lost several of the lightweight bouts, the heavyweights brought the points home. Tony Saba, Bob Fraley, and Ed Soltis looked particularly good at Coughlin.

At the G.A.R. meet, a freshman, Bill Harris, began to show quality in his wrestling. Tony Saba also helped to win 33 points for Meyers as opposed to G.A.R.'s 19. This is the fourth year that Meyers has beaten the boys from the Hill.

Unfortunately, the Meyers wrestlers did not continue this winning streak. The first loss of the season was to the visiting Lake Lehman squad. Even though we took the last two bouts, we were not able to pull through enough points and ended the meet with a very close score, 24-21.

This defeat apparently spurred the matmen to take Westmoreland, 41-13. Jim Connelly and Ed Soltis took their first losses of the season, but the rest of the team seemed to be on the winning track once again.

This did not prove to be true, however, when Kingston defeated Meyers, 50-0. The boys wrestled in fine form, regardless of the point score. Some say that this was revenge for Kingston's football defeat by Meyers.

Our boys came back to trounce Plymouth, 47-11. Tony Saba, Jim Connelly, Fred McDaniels, and Steve Faulls were outstanding.

Hanover took the last meet of the season, 31-19. Dave Kennedy and Ken Jones both did some admirable wrestling. At this final event Dave Kennedy was chosen permanent captain of the squad. The two Seniors, Jim Connelly and Ed Soltis, wrestled their last dual meets as Meyers closed its 1961-62 season.

In the city meet, Meyers made an excellent showing. Tony Saba, Kenny Jones, Jim Connelly and Ed Soltis were city champs. Steve Faulls wrestled with an injury and Dave Kennedy lost on a referee's decision, but people "in the know" think he should have won. The highest individual score of the tournament was tallied by Ed Soltis who had two pins. The scores: G.A.R. 44, Meyers 40, and Coughlin 31.

At the District's Ed Soltis and Dave Kennedy placed fourth. Ken Jones and Bill Harris took thirds and Jim Connelly walked off with a trophy for second. All in all, we did well at both the city and the District's.

Certainly a great deal of the credit is due Coach Keith Williams and Assistant Marv Antinnes. A job well done!

BARBELL CLUB

Barbell training is the most effective method known for building and strengthening the human body and has been used by all of the world's strongest and best-developed men. This activity has transformed many weak, under-sized or over-sized men into models of physical perfection. It is certain that the discipline can do the same for any young man if he is willing to persevere and if he has no crippling physical disability.

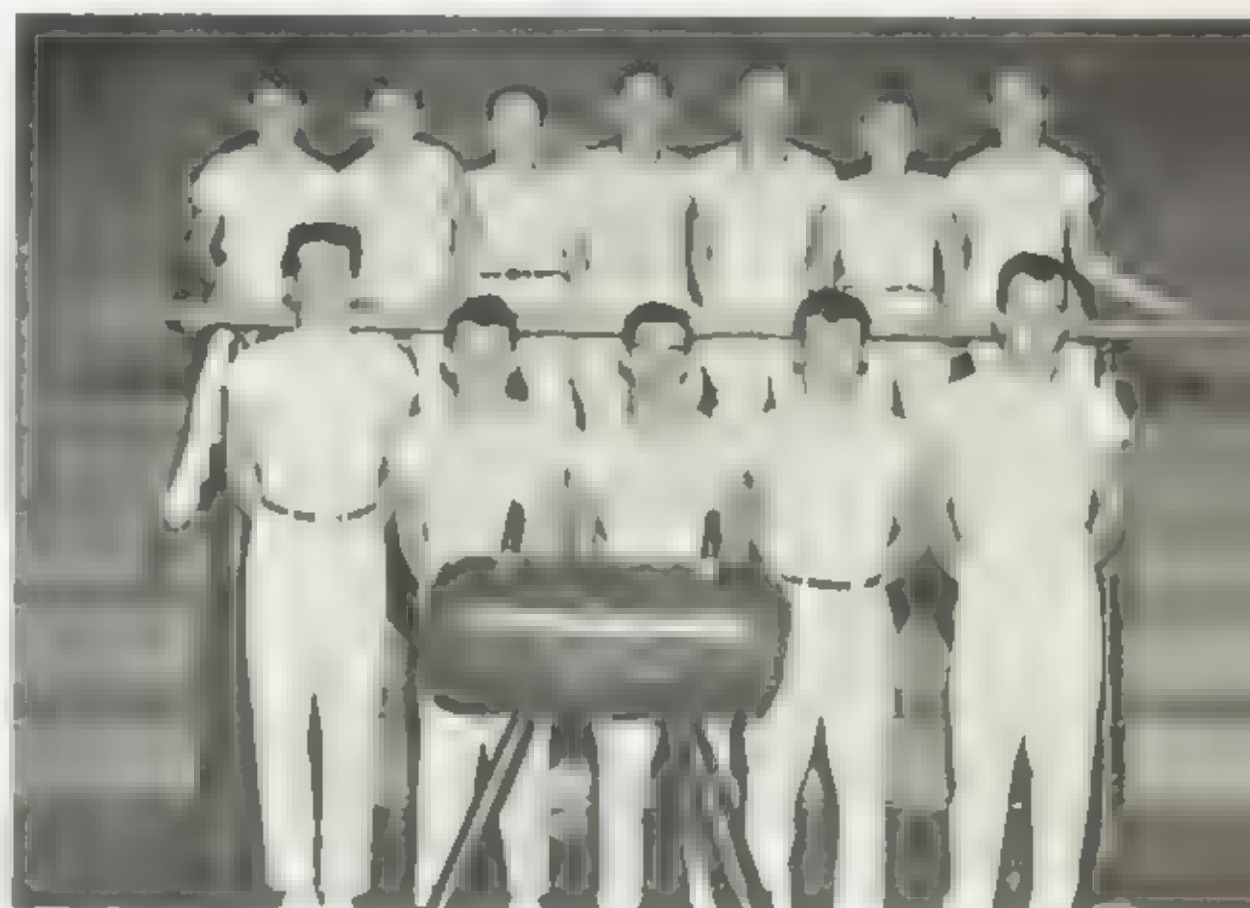

The modern adjustable weight barbell allows the user to get the exact weight he needs and at the same time prevents strain. The only real drawback in barbell training is that it is hard work. However, in spite of all the labor-saving inventions in other fields, there has been no better method discovered for developing muscles.

Gym Team

GYM TEAM

The Gym Team is a group of boys, hand-picked by the instructor because of their natural ability in tumbling and a liking for gymnastics. The group meets four mornings a week and Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday during seventh periods. It is the responsibility of these young men to keep the standards high in this area of Physical Education. They learn front hand springs, back hand springs with roundoffs and back somersaults, hand springs on parallelbars, giant circles on the horizontal bars, front somersaults with layout from the springboard, round-offs with hands, the half twist on the trampoline, and many other difficult stunts.

This year, on March 14, the team performed for the Junior High School and on March 15 for the Senior High School and were enthusiastically received by both student bodies.

The primary purpose of the Red Cross Water Safety Course is to reduce drownings by teaching people skills that will contribute to their own safety and that of others. In addition, the program offers meaningful outlets for skills taught and adds to health, fun, and the recreational values of aquatic activities. The need for education in water safety exists in every community in the United States. Many persons who may not have an opportunity to participate in aquatics in their own community spend some time each year at beaches, pools, lakes, or streams where they are exposed to possible hazards. In fact, it is estimated that nearly 100,000,000 Americans use swimming or small-craft facilities every year. Initially, efforts of the Red Cross in water safety were directed primarily toward teaching lifesaving. However, experience soon indicated a more basic need was on the preventive side through education in swimming skills. Consequently, swimming and diving courses from the beginning through the advanced level were established and have been widely used throughout the nation as the Red Cross has worked towards the goal of making "Every American a Swimmer—Every Swimmer a Lifesaver." This is the Meigs High School goal, too. Another purpose is teaching persons of or near military age essential aquatic skills under military conditions.

The Junior Lifesaving course objectives are to develop skills and knowledge for prevention of aquatic accidents and for rescue. The length of the course is 15 hours. Prerequisites are that the boy be 12 to 15 years of age or in grades 7 through 10 and with some preliminary swimming requirements. This course is taught by an authorized Water Safety instructor. The text for the course is American Red Cross Life Saving and Water Safety and the Instructor's Manual.

The Senior Lifesaving course objectives are the same. The length of the instruction period is a minimum of seventeen hours. Young men must be 16 years of age or older or in grade 11 or above. Preliminary swimming requirements are also mandatory.

Objectives of the whole program are to make people safe while in, or near the water, to create in every individual an awareness of the ways in which accidents are caused or can be prevented. An additional objective is to provide outlets for skills learned and to contribute to healthful and safe recreation.

For over ten consecutive years the "Meyers Mermaids" have put on a spectacular water ballet. "A unique display of many different swimming skills set to music" briefly describes the show. This year the theme was "Around the World." Costuming, make-up, and decorating, all done by the girls themselves, played an important part in making the performance a success.

The girls, chosen because of their ability to make difficult strokes look graceful and easy, are a credit to Meyers.

The pool area was jammed for the performances on May 25 and 26.
